Here are some things I had in my file that I never wrote about (sshhhhh, I was in rehab, don't tell anyone) anyway, here is some back log stuff, so it may be dated, but you know what ... so am I ...

Kobe scoring 81 points is freakin' amazing. Shoots the ball 46 times, makes 28 ... .609 pct from the field.

You know it's a great game when you miss almost 20 shots and everyone talks about how incredible you played.

I was clicking thru the channels and came across a WNBA game (Monarchs/Comets), no that's not the funny part) but the ad across the baseline was for TAMPAX.

It's disturbing that we can now give gift/credit cards for fast food restaurants.

Matt Millen, in his first 4 years as GM of the Lions, was 16-48. He got a 5 year contract extension. Wow, what job security ... he must have something on the owner ... he must.

I saw Jack White in Rolling Stone Mag ... I swear to God, he is looking more and more like Michael Jackson. Or Michael Jackson is looking more and more like Jack White. Either way, it's creepy.

When Mike Vanderjagt missed that kick vs Pittsburgh in the NFL playoffs a couple years ago, my son looks over at me and says "Mike Vanderjagt is the Peja Stojakovic of the NFL."

I was watching this reality show called 'The Nanny' or 'Super Nanny' or something like that, about these asshole kids who don't listen and get into shit and the parents who can't do anything about it. So they bring in this Mary Poppins lady ... yada, yada ... I started thinking ... I'm going to do a new show about asshole kids and call it: 'The Belt.'

Derek Jeter had a 21 game hitting streak and then in one game during the streak he walked 3 times and was hit by a pitch, so he had no 'official' at bats ... so the streak was intact for the next game. Just seemed weird to me.

ESPN made a movie about Roger Bannister and the '4 Minute Mile' and the surprising part was that Barry Pepper did NOT play Roger Bannister.

How come there wasn't a reality show with 'Nick and Jessica' about the divorce. Maybe 'Nick and Jessica, The Divorce' ... I would have watched it.

I was at the mall the other day and I saw this big, big girl wearing a 'Phat Farm' sweatshirt ... and I thought, wow, good for her she is trying. Then I realized it was a Russell Simmons shirt..

This one I just heard ... this last baseball season the Texas Rangers set a Major League record by scoring 30 runs in a 30-3 win against the Baltimore Orioles. The 30 runs, yes amazing, but the part that sticks out to me is the fact that Rangers reliever Wes Littleton got the save. Yes, that's right, the SAVE. They freakin' won by 27 runs! Whew, Wes ... if the Orioles batted around only 3 times, you were in real jeopardy of blowing that thing.

One last thing ... also, expect an Oscar someday from Emile Hirsch, the kid that starred in The Girl Next Door and played Jay Adams in Lords of Dogtown. Emile Hirsch and Topher Grace ... one or maybe both, will win an Oscar in their careers.
